YEAR OF THE NORTH
NATIONAL ARTS CENTRE ANNUAL REPORT 2012–2013
The National Arts Centre (NAC) is the foremost showcase for the performing arts in Canada. It is strongly committed to being a leader and innovator in each of the performing arts fields in which it works – classical music, English theatre, French theatre, dance, contemporary music, variety and community programming.

The NAC is also at the forefront of youth and education activities, supporting programs for young and emerging artists, presenting programs for young audiences and producing resources and study materials for teachers and students. The NAC is the only multidisciplinary, bilingual performing arts centre in North America and one of the largest in the world.

Accountability and Funding

The NAC reports to Parliament through the Minister of Canadian Heritage and Official Languages. Of the NAC’s total revenue, approximately half is derived from an annual parliamentary appropriation, while the other half comes from earned revenue – box office sales, the NAC Foundation, NAC catering, le café (restaurant), commercial parking and facility rentals. Each year, the NAC tables an annual report before Parliament. The Auditor General of Canada is the NAC’s external auditor.

Structure

A Board of Trustees consisting of 10 members from across Canada, chaired by Julia E. Foster, oversees the NAC. The President and CEO is Peter A. Herrndorf, and the creative leadership team is composed of Fünfach Zuleman (Music), John Keely (English Theatre), Brigitta Hoentjes (French Theatre), Cathy Levy (Dance), Heather Moore (Northern Scene), Simonene Demou (NAC Presents, Variety and Community Programming), and Executive Chef John Morris.

Official languages

The National Arts Centre is the only multidisciplinary, bilingual performing arts centre in North America. It is committed to promoting linguistic duality in all its endeavors. The Northern Scene was a shining example of this commitment by giving pride of place to Francophone artists such as singer-songwriter Eliape from Nunavut and Yukon’s Sisu de semaine. The NAC Orchestra’s Northern Scene Tour featured three student matinees in both official languages, as well as bilingual teaching resources. The NAC Presents lineup includes Anglophone and francophone artists on the national stage, such as renowned jazz artist Diana Krall and Acadian singer-songwriter Lisa LeBlanc. On the local front, the NAC has participated in Culture Days and Ontario Family Day celebrations for several years, offering an array of bilingual activities. Internationally, the NAC offers a wealth of learning resources that reflect our country’s bilingual nature on its ArtsAlive.ca and NACmuseshare.ca websites. Lastly, in June 2013, the NAC hosted the annual conference of official languages champions from all federal institutions.

Role

The National Arts Centre (NAC) raised its curtain for the first time in 1969. Created by the Parliament of Canada as a Centennial project during the 1960s, the NAC has become Canada’s foremost showcase for the performing arts.

Today, the NAC works with thousands of artists from across Canada and around the world and collaborates with dozens of arts organizations across the country. The NAC is strongly committed to being a leader and innovator in each of the performing arts fields in which it works – classical music, English theatre, French theatre, dance, contemporary music, variety and community programming.

The NAC is also at the forefront of youth and education activities, supporting programs for young and emerging artists, presenting programs for young audiences and producing resources and study materials for teachers and students. A little girl in an Iqaluit school gym twirls to Inuit music, played by the NAC Orchestra.

A throat singing beatboxer, age 19, captivates an assembly of children in Rankin Inlet, coaxing them to dream.

A masked drum-dancer blows feathers into faces as the National Arts Centre welcomes 200 Aboriginal artists to the national stage.

These are but a few moments from our Year of the North, in which this rarely visited but breathtakingly beautiful part of Canada and its extraordinary people took hold of us and never let go.

Our journey began some time ago. For the past four years our Music Alive Program in Nunavut has sought to help music thrive in Iqaluit, Pangnirtung, Igloolik, Kugluktuk and Rankin Inlet.

Fiddles, accordion, drumming and throat singing reverberated through classrooms and community halls, and through us.

Last fall, the NAC Orchestra and guest artists from north and south took their own journey for 10 days through northern Canada. They performed pieces by Grieg and Vivaldi, and Inuit songs of sealing and the Northern Lights.

The musicians shared their talent, teaching at every step of the way, and as much as they gave, they received even more.

Then in the spring, the North came south for Northern Scene, a festival unlike any other. Three hundred and fifty-five artists dazzled us with a North that was at once ancient and modern, traditional yet completely fresh. Drumming and storytelling, but also a red-hot fashion show. A rapper rocking the crowd. A carved stone figure holding an iPod.

Our Year of the North has been an incredible journey for us, and for the thousands of Canadians it has touched. Through the relationships we have built with northern artists and communities, it is our hope that its legacy will continue for many more years to come.
“Before I went north, I had this idea that I would be bringing them something. But they brought us so much by being who they are. The kids out there, they don’t play music because they have to do it for school. They do it because they love it.”

Julie Fauteux flew in with her NAC Brass Trio colleagues on a crisp and sunny morning. Narwhals surfaced in the water below, and the pilot circled to give the musicians another look.

The musicians were there to play music with students as part of the NAC’s Music Alive Program, but staff explained that half of the children would be hunting the narwhals with their parents that morning. The musicians did their workshop in the afternoon instead, to the students’ great delight.

Fog and wind kept them in Pangnirtung an extra three days, but between the mountains and the fjord, it was an incredibly beautiful place to be stuck. “The people were so welcoming,” Julie said. “When they played a concert, the whole community came.”

“Before I went north, I had this idea that I would be bringing them something. But they brought us so much by being who they are. The kids out there, they don’t play music because they have to do it for school. They do it because they love it. Music, dancing – everything they do, they do it intensely. It reminded me that the real pleasure in music is having fun.”

— Julie Fauteux, Associate Principal Horn, NAC Orchestra

“It’s tricky landing a plane in Pangnirtung, Nunavut. A little wind, a little fog and your pilot heads for Iqaluit instead.”

“Before I went north, I had this idea that I would be bringing them something. But they brought us so much by being who they are. The kids out there, they don’t play music because they have to do it for school. They do it because they love it.”

When I decided to stay home for a few more days and saw kids around the town, they shared with me how happy they were to learn about throat singing. It was especially neat to see young boys excited about it.”

“I’d play two notes and they’d start high-fiving each other and pumping their fists in the air. In those moments you realize how important music education is. If you can turn a handful of kids on to music, you inspire a whole community.”

KAREN DONNELLY  PRINCIPAL TRUMPET, NAC ORCHESTRA

Karen Donnelly first went to Iqaluit to play with students in January 2012 as part of the NAC’s Music Alive Program. In the fall, the Principal Trumpet for the NAC Orchestra returned to the region as part of the Northern Canada Tour.

One of the Tour’s 65 education events linked the Iqaluit Fiddle Club, students and singers in Iqaluit to OrKidstra and KidSingers in Ottawa via broadband videoconference. The children played music together, singing “Amazing Grace” in Inuktitut and other Inuit songs.

A highlight for Karen was reuniting with two 16-year-old trumpet players at Inuksuk High School she had met on her first visit. She had been so moved by their enthusiasm that she offered to teach them from Ottawa using high-definition videoconference equipment that the NAC donated to their school.

“The girls don’t have access to a trumpet teacher, so they were excited to have this opportunity. I’d play two notes and they’d start high-fiving each other and pumping their fists in the air. In those moments you realize how important music education is. If you can turn a handful of kids on to music, you inspire a whole community.”

Karen’s northern journey goes on today, as she continues to connect to Inuksuk High School via broadband videoconference from the NAC.

“The truth is, every single one of us, including our guest conductor Arild Remmereit and our guest artist James Ehnes, have come away with a sense of the Canadian North as being an extraordinary, deeply spiritual place, which we have had the privilege to be part of for these past 10 days.”

It’s very important to learn your language, and your songs, and your stories. If you do that, your feet will stand very strong on the ground.”

“It’s a historical moment for us. We’re singing ayaya songs that come from hundreds of years of tradition, and they have only just recently been brought back to life.”

AYAYA SONGS

Celebrating Inuit music was a guiding principle of the Northern Canada Tour. In advance, the NAC Orchestra received permission to transcribe ancient Inuit ayaya songs for Western instruments. The songs had been nearly forgotten, as they lay dormant during the time of assimilation policies and residential schools, when English was the prescribed language by those in control at the time.

“It’s a historical moment for us,” said Laakkuluk Williamson Bathory, an artist leading the charge to create a performing arts center in Iqaluit.

“We’re singing ayaya songs that came from hundreds of years of tradition, and they have only just recently been brought back to life.”

The Orchestra performed Quviasuliqpunga with throat singers Sylvia Cloutier, Madeleine Allakariallak and the Aqsarniit School Choir at an evening concert in Iqaluit. A brass ensemble also performed the piece, which translated means “there is joy, I will be living,” for school children and at an elders’ residence.

“Doing this gives recognition to Inuit music, and says that its value is equivalent to classical music,” said Darlene Nuqingaq, Educational Leadership Development Coordinator for the Government of Nunavut. “That’s the biggest celebration that the NAC Orchestra brought across the North.”
“We’re trying to show simple human beings that shine with happiness and love.”

Guillaume Saladin, Artcirq co-founder

Artcirq is a group of artists who blend the traditions of circus with Inuit culture. Based in Igloolik, Nunavut, the company has performed around the world, from the Queen’s Diamond Jubilee celebrations in London, U.K., to Mexico, Ireland and even Timbuktu.

Despite these exotic locales, Guillaume Saladin, who co-founded Artcirq in 1998 to combat teen depression and suicide, arranges Artcirq’s schedule to be away from home as little as possible. The company members have young children, and, when they travel, leave half their hearts in Igloolik.

For Northern Scene, the company made the trip with their families, and their children shared the stage.

“We’re trying to show simple human beings that shine with happiness and love,” Saladin said. “We incorporate our children into the show so that the audience can see a happy Inuit family, but also to see themselves and their own family, and be touched by that, and think about how they can be better.”

Northern Scene gave Artcirq the chance to be inspired by fellow northern artists – people they know and admire, but rarely get a chance to see.

On the flight home, his normally homesick performers told Guillaume they wished they had stayed longer.

“It seems now all a throating, seal-skin-clad, insistently drummed, beautifully performed, North-infused dream. Some favourite moments: the family acrobatics in Artcirq with the-kisses-between-tricks; the moment the heartbeat stopped in the story about tuberculosis in Spirit of the Drums; Ivan Coyote’s hilarious, flowing, good-humoured storytelling; the catharsis of the live radio play I Count Myself Among Them, which felt like falling into and then being shot out of a well; the phrase ‘voices that sound like snow’ in the play A Promise is a Promise; the quality and pride of the artists.”

“Ever since I was a little kid, I always had a dream of sharing myself with everyone. I grew up with a lot of struggles. I feel like I’ve been given a gift. It’s not something to brag about, it’s a strong responsibility and a privilege.”

Nelson Tagoona grew up in Baker Lake, Nunavut, a lonely kid with big dreams. Music filled his emptiness, made him feel he could belong. He liked to beatbox. When others suggested he infuse it with his own culture, he threw throat singing into the mix and “throat boxing” was born.

“My favourite thing in life is to really thrive, to take control of your time to shine. You don’t just sit down. You stand up! And you be you, and you push that energy that you feel, and push it as far as you can.”

Shine he did. With a Gibson Les Paul electric guitar slung over his shoulder, he hypnotized the crowd night after night at Northern Scene.

“I don’t even know how to explain what Northern Scene meant to me,” he told Northern News Services. “I could break down in tears. It is a real honour, and I wish so many other Inuit had the ability to explore the opportunities I have been given. This festival has opened the doors wider than they have ever been.”

Today Nelson is part of the NAC’s Music Alive Program, performing and speaking to Nunavut children, inspiring them to shine.
“It felt like a giant reunion for a lot of us artists, but more than that, it was the first time ever in the history of northern art, that we came from across so many disciplines and shared our love of what defines so many of us — the North.”

LEELA GILDAY SINGER-SONGWRITER, YELLOWKNIFE, NORTHWEST TERRITORIES

“It was a milestone, and raised northern arts to a new level — in both the public’s eyes, but also in the eyes of many of the artists. What I mean is that all of a sudden, we reached critical mass, and looked around and said to each other, ‘This is truly amazing.’ Many of us did not know how varied and talented northern artists are. How powerful we are. How unique we are.

For me personally, it was 10 days of pushing my artistic boundaries; I was given an opportunity to create some new pieces and work in new genres that I never would have thought to work in on my own.

I am always proud to be from the North and to be Dene, but that week I think I stood a little bit taller and a little bit prouder, because you gave us a chance to show that to the world.”

JIM GREEN PRESIDENT, STORYTELLING NWT SOCIETY

“After eight years of evolution, finally making it to the national stage was a mind blower. We felt like we had arrived, like our time had come. In fact, I felt like that about all the northern performers. Filtering from the forests and the northern bush, slipping down the valleys from the frozen mountains, flowing like the wind across the snow-crusted tundra, climbing on planes across the North to swoop south, like squadrons of revellers to descend on the nation’s capital as full-blown performers in their own right. Giving voice to their cultures and their pride in being who they are.”

Message from the Chair of the Board of Trustees

The Canadian North has forever loomed large in the Canadian psyche. Vast, remote and breathtakingly beautiful, the North is also a region that many of us will never have the chance to visit.

This fall I had the enormous privilege of travelling with our National Arts Centre Orchestra on their extraordinary Northern Canada Tour. Here was a journey unlike any other. Imagine: 21 of some of the greatest musicians in Canada (and the world), setting out to perform six concerts — including the Orchestra’s first-ever concerts in Iqaluit — and taking part in more than 65 education events in all three northern territories.

The Tour featured classical repertoire, but also showcased northern performers and northern music, including new NAC-commissioned arrangements of traditional music that had never before been performed by an orchestra. In Iqaluit, the Orchestra performed two such pieces with Pangnirtung accordion player Simonice Kemaatnak and, playing with the Orchestra sent his music — and the audience — into the stratosphere. Thrust singers Evie Mark and Aksnie Siviaarapik, who travelled with the Tour, were front-and-centre for Canadian composer Alexisius Louie’s Take the Dog Sled. The piece evokes the sounds of the North — even of a mosquito being slapped in the night! — and the performance drew a standing ovation.

The educational component was just as inspiring, with masterclasses, individual coaching, question-and-answer sessions, workshops in schools and community centres, and more. I will keep forever the image of James Ehnes, one of the most gifted and beautiful violins, transfixed. We out-of-towners just melted.

Our Year of the North also included the Northern Scene, a 10-day celebration in the Nation’s Capital that showcased the remarkable creativity of 355 northern artists. And our Music Alive Program in Nunavut, which sends northern and southern teaching musicians to work with young people, helps build capacity for music in schools, inspires music-making in communities and helps preserve northern music, continues to flourish. The Year of the North would not have been possible without the leadership support of Tour and Scene Presenting Partners GE Canada and TransCanada Corporation respectively, in addition to the generosity of numerous individual donors and corporate partners.

The NAC’s northern outreach is part of our national vision inspired by Peter Herrndorf, our incomparable President and CEO, with strong support from our Board of Trustees, an exceptional and diverse group of individuals from across the country. I thank our departing members Christopher Donison of Victoria, B.C., Frederick MacGillivray of Halifax, Nova Scotia, and Vice-Chair Normand Latsouille of Sutton, Quebec. I am delighted to welcome Yulanda Faris of Vancouver, British Columbia, and Donald Walcot of Montreal, Quebec. Finally, my deep appreciation goes to our newly appointed NAC Foundation Board Chair Gail Asper, our outgoing Chair Gail O’Brien, and our Foundation Board. We are all proudly united in our commitment to the National Arts Centre and the performing arts across Canada.

Julia E. Foster Chair, Board of Trustees

The National Arts Centre: Journeys North and Beyond

Our Year of the North took all of us at the National Arts Centre on an extraordinary journey. It was a year in which we very deliberately set out to deepen our engagement with this most majestic and beautiful part of Canada, and the remarkable people who live there.

In fact, the foundation for our Year of the North, which included the NAC Orchestra’s Northern Canada Tour in the fall and our Northern Scene festival in the spring, had been laid by our Music Education department. Over the past four years, it had developed strong relationships with northern artists, boards of education and communities through our Music Alive Program in Nunavut. The partnerships we forged have led to local and visiting musicians working with children and young people in Iqaluit, Iqaluit, Rankin Inlet, Pangnirtung and Kangirsuk; the donation of instruments to northern communities; community concerts that showcase northern musicians and celebrate Inuit music; music workshops for teachers-in-training; the funding of summer music camps for children; leadership summits to help young leaders encourage more music-making in their communities; and the teaching of Inuit students by musicians of the NAC Orchestra through broadband videoconference technology.

That activity and those relationships created a solid base from which to plan the Orchestra’s Northern Canada Tour. Led by Guest Conductor Arild Remmereit and featuring Manitoba’s own James Ehnes as soloist, the Tour would include six concerts and more than 65 education events in Yukon, the Northwest Territories and Nunavut. But it would also showcase northern music and northern artists — people like renowned throat singers Sylvia Cloutier and Madeleine Allakariallak, and the legendary accordionist Simonice Kemaatnak, all of whom we had worked with through the Music Alive Program.

It was a similar story when Executive Director and Producer Heather Moore began visiting Northern Canada to program Northern Scene, she was able to build relationships with local artists in part because of the NAC’s presence in the region. She did an astonishing job. The 10-day festival, which showcased the work of 355 northern artists at the NAC and in the Nation’s Capital, was the largest-ever gathering of northern artists outside the region, and the feeling of celebration was inspiring. I can still see 19-year-old Nelson Tagoona of Baker Lake, Nunavut throat boxing (a combination of breathsinging and Inuit throat singing), and Yellowknife rapper Godson strutting the fashion show catwalk at the Scene’s opening party called SHRIMN.

More than 1,000 people were dancing in the NAC Foyer, and never in my life have I felt the place so alive as it was that night.

We learned a tremendous amount.

We learned of the culture and traditions of the North. We were drawn into its stories — both ancient and modern — told by its most exciting artists. We were confronted with its hard realities from first-hand conversations, rather than from news headlines. We admired and envied the pride, spirit and true sense of caring that is intrinsic to the North and its people.

The Northern Scene journey was shared by the Scene’s sold-out audiences, and by millions of Canadians who followed along through extensive national media exposure. Here is a preview of a few more journeys ahead.

In the fall of 2013, the NAC Orchestra will embark on one of the most ambitious tours of China ever undertaken by a Canadian performing arts organization. We will travel to Hong Kong, Guangzhou, Chongqing, Fuling, Tianjin, Beijing and Shanghai, with eight major concerts and more than 80 education and outreach activities, as well as five international broadband videoconference events linking young musicians in Canada and China.

In 2014, the Orchestra’s United Kingdom Commemorative Tour, led by Music Director Pinchas Zukerman, will include a double performance with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, and a concert at Salisbury about 15 km from the original encampment of the first Canadian contingent to arrive in the U.K. at the start of the First World War.

Finally, in 2017, Canada’s quincentennial, we plan to feature year-round programming, including new commissions by our most important artists and coordinated with artistic centres across the country, and Canada Scene: the culmination of the NAC’s Scene festivals that will invite hundreds of artists to the Capital in a magnificent expression of Canadian culture.

I hope you enjoy reading our Annual Report for 2012-2013. Consider it a travelogue of sorts, and the first of many more to come.

Music
In September, the NAC Orchestra, superstar pianist Lang Lang and sensational young violinist Shi Shuai shone at the 2012 NAC Gala which raised net proceeds of more than $800,000 for the National Youth and Education Trust. The next week, the Orchestra opened its season with an extremely popular four-concert Beethoven Festival led by Music Director Pinchas Zukerman. A particular highlight was Pinchas’s beautiful performance of Elgar’s Violin Concerto.
From October 26 to November 4, the Orchestra embarked on the Northern Canada Tour, with six concerts and more than 65 education events in all three Northern territories, led by Norwegian conductor Arild Remmereit. The Tour featured Canadian GRAMMY Award-winning violinist James Ehnes, as well as many northern artists, including renowned Nunavut throat singers Erivie Mark and Akinisie Sivuarapik.

The Tour featured classical repertoire but also placed northern music in the spotlight. Former NAC Award Composer Alexa Seip’s The Take the Dog Sled incorporates throat singing and many other sounds of the North, from the sharpening of sled runners to the cracking of ice.

Pангуннтанg accuratist Simeonie Keenanik performed two songs that the NAC arranged and orchestrated for the first time — Apanirniit (Northern Lights) and Ahaadla (Song for the Sea). The NAC Orchestra also worked with artists Sylvia Cloutier and Akinisie Sivuarapik to orchestrate and perform ayuqa songs — Inuit songs that were sung for centuries, nearly forgotten as they lay dormant during the time of assimilation policies and residential schools, and are now re-emerging. Orchestra musicians gave special performances for seniors in residences, friendship centres and long-term care facilities in partnership with Health Arts Society, providing a rare opportunity to hear Inuit music played by Western instruments.

The Orchestra also performed student matinées of Vivaldi and the Four Seasons in Iqaluit and Yellowknife that featured James Ehnes, actor John Doucet and many local performers, including Simeonie Keenanik, the Iqaluit Fiddler Club and the Aqarnit School Choir in Iqaluit; folk singer Moira Cameron and the Weleleth Fiddle Club in Yellowknife; and folk singer Helène Beaulieu and the Fiddleheads Yukon in Whitehorse.

In addition, musicians broke off into chamber groups to perform in school groups and community centres. Arild Remmereit, Erivie Mark, Akinisie Sivuarapik and Orchestra musicians also coached ensembles, gave lessons and masterclasses, and connected in dozens of ways with young artists, students and teachers. The Tour resulted in a profound community connection and created a legacy of relationships the NAC will build on in the coming years.

In October, Quebec’s internationally acclaimed Les Violons du Roy, conducted by Bernard Labadie, made its Southam Hall debut with a baroque concert featuring Emmanuel Pahud, Principal Flute of the Berlin Philharmonic. In November, Slovakian conductor Juraj Valčuha made his Canadian debut in concerts featuring the Orchestra’s first-ever performance of Debussy’s La Mer, and Jonathan Biss gave a lyrical performance of Mozart’s Piano Concerto No. 24. The same month, the Orchestra traveled to Toronto for their annual engagement at Roy Thomson Hall where they repeated their performance with Mr. Barnatan, and also included Alberta composer John Estacio’s Rêve: Toccata and Fantasy for Orchestra, an NAC-commissioned work that premiered as part of the Orchestra’s Atlantic Canada Tour in 2011.

On April 27, Ottawa families took a musical journey to Canada’s arctic in Adventure in Canada’s North, the fourth of the season’s TD Family Adventures with the NAC Orchestra series and presented as part of Northern Scene. Co-hosted by Principal Youth and Family Ensemble Alain Teudel and acclaimed northern singer-songwriter Susan Apgar, the concert showcased some of the North’s most dynamic artists, including throat singers Erivie Mark, Akinisie Sivuarapik and the duo Kulukur, the Dëkheks K’layuan Dancers, andaccordion master Simeonie Keenanik. Pre-concert TUNETOWN activities included performances by Northern Snow-artists and the chance to explore arctic crafts and games. The following week, the Orchestra performed four student matinées of this highly popular concert. In early May, the Orchestra joined forces with Montreal’s l’Orchestre Métropolitain for an all-Strauss program conducted by Canadian superstar Yannick Nézet-Séguin. The spectacular concerts were the highlight of the classical music season in Ottawa, and in Montreal at the Maison symphonique de Montréal. The following week, Latvian conductor Ainars Rubikis conducted the world premiere of Canadian composer Anna Sokolović’s work Ringelspiel. Finally, as part of the Summer Concert Series, internationally renowned Canadian pianist Angela Hewitt specifically selected the NAC Orchestra to play with her on a live concert recording of Mozart’s Piano Concerto No.20 & 24. The concert was led by conductor Hannu Lintu and will be released on Hyperion Records.

The six-concert Fiddleheads Investments Pops Series under the baton of Principal Pops Conductor Jack Everly was a hit with audiences once again. Highlights included The Tenors, a concert featuring music from Hollywood musicals, and a presentation of the film West Side Story, with live accompaniment by the NAC Orchestra.

English Theatre
Outgoing Artistic Director Peter Hinton’s final season devoted to plays by women proved a fitting moment to introduce two celebrated stage directors as the new leadership team for English Theatre — Artistic Director Jillian Keiley of Newfoundland and Labrador, and Associate Artistic Director Sarah Garten Stanley of Montreal. Their first year was marked by an exciting expansion of the NAC’s reach, with new collaborations, an energized and growing audience, and a profound level of activity across Canada.

The season kicked off in October with two co-productions opening simultaneously: in Ottawa, The Glace Bay Miners’ Museum (with Halifax’s Neptune Theatre, celebrating its 50th anniversary), and in Calgary, a wildly successful new adaptation of Pride and Prejudice (with Theatre Calgary).

Next, the NAC presented the world premiere of shrew by recent Playwright-in-Residence Diane Brand, based on her book of poetry of the same name and directed by Jillian Keiley’s predecessor, Peter Hinton. In December, Pride and Prejudice transferred from Theatre Calgary to the NAC stage and became the second-highest grossing production in English Theatre history. The NAC added three performances to meet demand, including a benefit for the Actors’ Fund of Canada and the Ottawa Food Bank.

Metamorphoses (Based on the Myths of Ovid) opened on February 1 and marked Jillian’s directorial debut in her role as Artistic Director. The show was also highly anticipated for another reason: the play is staged... in water. Edmonton designer Bertha Genske’s set included several pools and a swimming tank weighing 12 ½ tons. The technical challenges of this show were endless: the water elements affected everything from the fabric used in the costumes, to the buoyancy of the props, to the actors’ rehearsal venue (a local pool). Metamorphoses was a true testament to the collaborative nature of theatre, and to the excellence of English Theatre’s designers, wardrobe department, carpenters, prop-makers and stage crew to put the show on stage.

NAC English Theatre’s activity across Canada was evident once again, with four simultaneous NAC co-productions across Canada. As Metamorphoses opened, Innocence Lost A Play About Steven Truscott had opened at the Centaur Theatre in Montreal the same night. A few weeks later, Innocence Lost opened at the NAC on the same evening as The Glass Beaker Miner’s Museum opened at the Neptune Theatre in Halifax. And two days later, English Theatre and Victoria’s Belfry Theatre co-production of And Slowly Beauty opened in Toronto at the Tarragon Theatre.

Innocence Lost had a highly successful and powerful run in both Ottawa and Montreal. The play generated much discussion within the audience and the press: journalist Julian Stur, who covered and wrote a book on the Steven Truscott case, wrote about his experience at the show in the Toronto Star, as did former justice minister Irwin Cotler in the Ottawa Citizen. Big Mama! The Willie Mae Thornton Story directed by John Cooper and starring Jackie Richardson in a role many said she was born to play, had a hugely successful run in April and May. To close the season, Miss Calabria, written and beautifully performed by Melody A. Johnson, told the story of a young girl competing in local beauty pageants to escape life on the farm.

Led by new Artistic Director Sarah Garten Stanley, English Theatre launched “The Collaborations,” investing creatively and financially in 20 new works with artists and arts organizations across Canada, and beyond. Over time, the goal is to see some of these collaborations making their way into future English Theatre programming. Throughout the year, Jillian and Sarah connected extensively with the Canadian theatre community, travelling the country for meetings with theatre companies, auditioning more than 600 actors from coast to coast, and actively programming the 2013–2014 season. Showcasing many of the most creative artists and theatre companies in Canada, the upcoming season has been met with strong early response from audiences and the national community.

French Theatre

The 2012–2013 French Theatre season was the first one crafted by artistic director Brigitte Laptineau in her role as Artistic Director.

In October, French Theatre was delighted to present the Canadian premiere of Zyzyt Gépér (José Cura) at the Théâtre du Nouvel-Ontario, which Brigitte headed in the 1980s. The production was a prime example of Brigitte’s commitment to theatre that reflects contemporary reality and gives a voice to troubled, rejected and marginalized members of society.

In March, Brigitte presented her production of Swedish playwright Lars Norrestål’s work Le 20 novembre starring the exceptionally talented actor Christian Lapiet. The production was an example of the company’s talent list of creations and a role many said she was born to play, had a hugely successful run in April and May. To close the season, Miss Calabria, written and beautifully performed by Melody A. Johnson, told the story of a young girl competing in local beauty pageants to escape life on the farm.

Northern Scene featured 78 events in 25 venues over 10 days, presenting a vast living portrait of the region, combining traditional and contemporary, exhilarating and new voices. More than 350 artists from Yukon, the Northwest Territories, and Nunavut, as well as Nunavut and Nunatsiavut — musicians, actors, dancers, visual and media artists, filmmakers, writers, craftpeople and chefs — brought their unique talents to audiences throughout the Ottawa-Gatineau region. Attendance at Northern Scene topped 50,000, with large and enthusiastic audiences at performances and exhibitions throughout the festival.

Highlights of the festival included: Brandywine, a spectacular fashion show of 11 northern designers; Telebey: Inuit Raven Stories, a collaborative theatre piece featured a dynamic cast of Inuit actors and musicians from Nunavut, Nunavik and Greenland; and Yukon’s Grandand Theatre production of Justice, based on real-life events in the Klondike in 1899. Northern Scene showcased the very best emerging and established artists: Arvinn, Inuvik Drummers and Dancers, Linda Gilday, Susan Agharkark, Eliaspie, Old Time Machine, Kim Beggs, Tianya Tagaq, Gradsul, Soor de Semaine, D’Arcy Moses, Shaurini Ashoona, Charles Stankiewicz, Tim Puntsaluk, Zacharias Kunuk, Richard Van Camp, Ivan Coyote, Michael Kauskug, Taqpalik Partidge, and many more.

The festival also offered a chance for 60 national and international presenters to discover the best of northern culture, creating new performance opportunities for northern artists across the country and around the world.

Variety

Audiences thrilled to see the blockbuster musical Jersey Boys at South Hall in June and July. The touring production of the Tony Award-winning musical co-created by Canadian director Des McAnuff starred Ottawa actor Nicholas Dromard as Tommy DeVito, one of the leading roles. “I’ve been able to come home and perform in this show, this is what I’ve been waiting for in my career,” he told the Ottawa Citizen. Other Broadway Across Canada productions included Beauty and the Beast and Billy Elliot, both of which were extremely popular with audiences.

Other Southam Hall highlights included Canadian rock-blues musician Colin James, the Just for Laughs Festival comedy gala, Canadian Flamenco composer/guitarist Jesse Cook, and legendary Quebeckois singer Ginette Reno.

Community Programming

In September, audiences were delighted by the return of Opera Lyra Ottawa with its beautiful production of Puccini’s La Bohème, directed by British conductor and NAC Orchestra Music Director-designate Alexander Shelley. In March, the company’s second production, Le Trojan, created by Tynan Patterson, was another hit.

Conte nomade, the series of French-language storytellers, launched its second season with a performance by Québécois actor-storyteller Alexis Roy. That same month, The Rob Frayne Dream Band — Mike Martyn, Jim Vivian, Reddy Elias, Frank Lantanne, Pete Carron, Jim Lewis, Mike Essowday, Mark Ferguson, Megan Jerome, and the NAC’s Meiko Lydall and Ryan Purchase — made the Fourth Stage debut.

Other highlights included John. Giggie’s three-concert jazz series, local comedian Chris Timms and local country music singer Drake Jenson.

Youth and Education Highlights

Music

Over 10 days in the fall, the NAC Orchestra embarked on a historic six-concert tour of Canada’s northern territories. The Northern Canada Tour included more than 65 education events, all of which were guided by five primary goals — providing music education to children and youth; music-making in the community; building capacity among educators and local musicians; preserving and showcasing local culture; and showcasing northern artists. The four chamber ensembles connected with youth in seven performances at elementary and high schools with performances of western and northern music. Orchestra musicians worked individually with young people through nine instrumental workshops and four private lessons, and guest artists were just as actively engaged. Guest Conductor Arild Rensmo led two chamber workshops; Guest Artist James Ehnes and composer Alexandre Lavoie led masterclasses; actor John Doucet taught four mime workshops to young people in schools and youth centres; and threat singers Eve-Mark and Akimiski Sersay gave threat singing workshops to students from Grade 2 to Grade 4.

Using broadband videoconference technology in order to share music across great distances is a hallmark of NAC Orchestra tours, and on October 27, the NAC and its northern partners organized an event between young Inuit fiddlers and singers, and Ottawa’s Orkisaltr a string quintet and KuuliSingers. The children played both classical and northern music and learned from each other: the Inuit children even taught their new Ottawa friends how to throat sing.

Much of this activity was built on the solid foundation of the NAC’s Music Alive Program, which has now reached more than 5,000 Canadians in Nunavut. The 2012-2013 season included a visit to Pangnirtung by the NAC Orchestra Brass Trio in conjunction with the Northern Canada Tour, as well as visits by teaching musicians to Iqaluit, Iqaluit, Pangnirtung, Kugluktuk and Rankin Inlet. The Music Alive Program was also active in more than 100 schools in rural Alberta and Saskatchewan and, after a successful partnership with the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra and the Frontier School Division, the program continued to grow in Manitoba with visits to three schools in southern Manitoba, and extended teaching artist residencies in northern Manitoba.

Youth and Education continue to be a key priority for the NAC Music Department. In addition to the Tour, the NAC’s music education and outreach activities last year reached truly 3 million patrons — locally, nationally and online.

English Theatre

In October, Artistic Director Julian Kelly and outgoing Managing Director Nancy Webster held English Theatre’s annual Teachers’ Night to speak about the upcoming season and its relevance to a student audience. That evening the teachers also attended a preview performance of The Glass Menagerie.

In the New Year, teaching artist Kristina Watt led a series of classroom workshops for students in Grades 4 and 5, guiding them to write short scripts based on the 2013 Family Day themes of animals, conservation and friendship found in Sanctuary Song, an opera for children based on a true story of an elephant and her compassionate zookeeper, written by Alibig Richardson-Schulte and Marjorie Chan. A production of the play by Théâtre Direct (Toronto) played in the NAC Studio in February. The students’ scripts formed the basis of the NAC’s Three-Minute Play Festival, and the experience of creating and performing their plays at the NAC was wonderfully enriching for the students and their teachers.

Since 2011, English Theatre has produced a day of free activities at the NAC on Family Day. It has become an incredibly popular event for Ottawa-Gatineau families, and this year’s edition featuring free games, workshops and other activities throughout the NAC’s public spaces, was no exception. Highlights included an Elephant Tretter-Totter (where children could discover how many of them equal the weight of one baby elephant); a series of elephant dance workshops for pre-schoolers led by Jillian, and the Nature Nook, where visitors learned about wildlife from naturalist Michael Runtz.

March 27 marked the opening of Le Vieu From De Hev, an outreach project in connection with the NAC’s co-production of The Edward Curtis Project with Ottawa’s Great Canadian Theatre Company. GCTC and the NAC partnered with the Urban Education Initiative for this family-friendly exhibition at the NAC on Family Day. The View From In Here, a multidisciplinary performance combining dance, painting and sculpture, produced by Montreal’s Bouge de là. Director and choreographer Hélène Lapointe hosted several complementary activities, including a creative dance workshop in a local school and a “Bal Moderne” before each weekend performance, in which the public was invited to learn and perform short dance routines with a modern twist.

In December, high school students attended Le Zarkheim 15 ans, a show for adolescents from Montréal’s Théâtre Le Clou marking the 15th anniversary of the theatre’s playwriting competition. The following month, children from ages one to five were enchanted by Édredon produced by Les Incomplets 10 of the 12 public performances were sold-out.

A new project this year invited students from the National Capital Region to explore the work of Suzanne Lebeau, an award-winning playwright for children. Several Grade 3 classes from Lycée Clauzel (Ottawa) and Grade 6, 7 and 8 students from Dunrobin-Fournier Elementary School in Ottawa studied her plays and had the opportunity to interact with her in the spring.

French Theatre also introduced a trial program subsidizing the costs of school bus transportation for 700 students from outlying areas of Ottawa-Gatineau so that they could attend student matinees. Finally, French Theatre launched two new programs for young ballet with Dance historian Kathryn Jones at the NAC; and the launch of the blog Extensions: Dance stories from here and there on the NAC Web site.

Dance

Every year, NAC Dance creates dozens of opportunities for children and young artists to learn from the highly acclaimed dancers and company staff who come to the NAC.

Éric Beauchesne, company member of Kahl Piotrov, was among the many gifted dance artists from across Canada and around the world to lead masterclasses at the NAC for advanced, pre-professional and professional dancers and teachers in 2012–2013. One participant wrote that the class “left her with a great feeling of accomplishment and connection to the local dance community.” Dance also offered masterclasses with lead company members and staff from Houston Ballet, Groupo Corpo, Hofesh Shechter, BJM, Canada’s Royal Winnipeg Ballet, Peggy Baker Dance Projects, T.R.A.S.H., Alberta Ballet and Flamenco dancer Maria Pages.

Dance works actively to supplement its programming with a range of educational activities and activities surrounding The Northern Canada Tour by Alberta Ballet were a perfect example. The December 3rd student matinee for almost 1,900 students, including students from three beacon schools, was complemented by a post-show presentation and discussion for 114 students by dance historian Kathryn Jones. At the first-ever Toc with a Balletin, eight students ranging in age from 11 to 17 sat down with dancer Alexandra Petra for an honest discussion on the arduous journey to becoming a professional dancer. Harry Pottersson, the company’s Director of Production and Touring, engaged with 45 students from École catholique de Célestine in a Q&A session; 10 professional dance teachers observed a company class; 27 students attended a class led by Ballet Mistress Kirsten Andersen (Fred Cattroll). Dance education’s Hair and Make-up Workshop with violinist Jeremy Mastrangelo and Hélène Schulte produced a vivid exhibition that ran in the Studio Foyer of the NAC from November 15 to December 31.

To explore engagement strategies between the NAC, teachers and students around future programming, the English Theatre team hosted a dinner in late spring for several teachers representing Ottawa school boards. This wide-ranging discussion was intended to help guide English Theatre in the design of its local and national education initiatives.

French Theatre

The 2012–2013 French Theatre season included a range of wonderful productions and new initiatives for young audiences, thanks to the leadership of Miléna Dumont, Associate Artistic Director for French Theatre’s programming for children and youth.

French Theatre’s season for children and youth opened in October with L’Edredon, a multidisciplinary performance combining dance, painting and sculpture, produced by Montreal’s Bouge de là. Director and choreographer Hélène Lapointe hosted several complementary activities, including a creative dance workshop in a local school and a “Bal Moderne” before each weekend performance, in which the public was invited to learn and perform short dance routines with a modern twist.

In December, high school students attended Le Zarkheim 15 ans, a show for adolescents from Montréal’s Théâtre Le Clou marking the 15th anniversary of the theatre’s playwriting competition. The following month, children from ages one to five were enchanted by Édredon produced by Les Incomplets 10 of the 12 public performances were sold-out.

Mario Bernardi, Founding Conductor of the National Arts Centre Orchestra, passed away peacefully on June 2, 2013, exactly 44 years to the day the NAC opened its doors. The NAC paid tribute to Mario with two initiatives made possible through the generous support of donors from across Canada: a new orchestral commission that will be premiered in a future season, and a permanent memorial.

On Canada Day, about 200 guests — including members of the Bernardi family, friends and former colleagues — gathered in the foyer of the NAC’s Southam Hall for the unveiling of a remarkable bust of Mario created by renowned Toronto artist Ruth Abernethy.

It’s appropriate that Mario’s sculpture will now be found steps away from the place where he conducted hundreds and hundreds of concerts during his 14-year tenure, and next to a large portrait of another NAC founding father (and close friend), the late Director General Hamilton Gordon Southam. As Mario’s widow Mona once remarked, the two men couldn’t have been more different. She called them “Mutt and Jeff” — the tall, elegant Hamilton and the shorter, more intense Mario.

In fact, theirs was a match made in musical heaven. “Mario Bernardi was the musical passion to Hamilton Southam’s cultural diplomacy,” said Peter Herrndorf, NAC President and CEO. “Their unusual friendship and extraordinary partnership established a set of standards, an ongoing tradition of artistic excellence which everyone at the NAC continues to live up to every day. Together they built the NAC literally from the ground up. Both men were nation-builders who believed the performing arts were a critically important way to express Canada’s identity.”

Mario Bernardi and his family were living in England when the NAC’s first Music Director Jean-Marie Beaudet recruited him, not only to become the conductor of the new National Arts Centre Orchestra, but also to create a brand new orchestra, musician by musician.

It was a daunting challenge. Mario personally auditioned every musician for the 49-member ensemble. He was under strict instructions not to poach players from other Canadian orchestras, so he reached the world, recruiting young musicians from all over Canada, the United States and Europe.

The musicians describe the early years of the NAC Orchestra as nothing less than extraordinary, with incredible tours across Canada, but also to the former Soviet Union, Poland, Western Europe, and New York’s storied Carnegie Hall.

And every summer, some of the best opera in North America was being performed at the NAC under Mario’s direction. During some of those performances, Mario would conduct the Orchestra and some of the great opera singers of the world from his harpsichord.

Farewell, Maestro. You will be missed.

Management Discussion and Analysis

The National Arts Centre Corporation (the “Corporation”) regularly presents subscription seasons in music, dance and theatre in both of Canada’s official languages. In addition, the Corporation presents a variety of other programming and makes its facilities available to other presenters and artists. Biennially, it presents upcoming and established regional artists in the performing, visual and culinary arts under the banner of the Scenes (Atlantic Scene, Alberta Scene, Quebec Scene, BC Scene, Prairie Scene, Northern Scene and the upcoming Ontario Scene). The Corporation also offers educational opportunities for young musicians across Canada through its Music Alive Program, and over the past decade, the National Arts Centre Orchestra has become known as one of Canada’s leading teaching orchestras, offering master classes and school performances across Canada, and, most recently, throughout China. The Corporation also engages young people through dance workshops, theatre classes and student matinees offered in Ottawa. Through its Hexagon Project, the National Arts Centre is a world leader in using next-generation videoconferencing and high performance networks to further education outreach in the performing arts for one-on-one tele-mentoring, as well as for highly engaging multi-site public events.

The Corporation remains committed to the fulfillment of its Strategic Goals published in Performing for Canadians:

- Artistic Excellence: Creating, producing and performing great work;
- Going National: Expanding our national role;
- The Art of Learning: Focussing on youth and education;
- Earning Our Way: Increasing our earned revenues; and
- Audiences at the Centre: Building relationships with our customers.

These strategic goals support the Corporation’s legislative mandates, which are to maintain and operate the National Arts Centre, to develop the performing arts in the National Capital Region, and to assist the Canada Council for the Arts in developing the performing arts elsewhere in Canada.

The Canada Council recognizes the role that the National Arts Centre has played and continues to play in the creation, production and distribution of the performing arts across Canada and abroad, as well as the development of individual artists.

To this end, the National Arts Centre and the Canada Council for the Arts have entered into an agreement to:

- support performance and creation on a national basis;
- foster the creative development and artistic excellence of both artists and performing arts organizations in all regions of the country;
- promote public engagement and arts education; and
- work in partnership to enhance and improve the capacity of each organization to deliver results.

RESOURCES

Physical Resources

The Corporation owns and operates the National Arts Centre (the “Centre”), the largest bilingual performing arts centre in Canada. The Centre is situated on 2.6 hectares in downtown Ottawa, bordering on the Rideau Canal, a UNESCO World Heritage Site. The Centre’s performance facilities include four halls, (Southam Hall, 2,323 seats; Theatre, 897 seats; Studio, 305 seats; Fourth Stage, 375 seats), 25 dressing rooms, 3 workshops and 2 rehearsal halls. A box office, restaurant, interior parking, intermission bars and checkrooms provide services to patrons. In addition, several multi-purpose rooms may be used for education, performances and receptions.

Human Resources

The Corporation is comprised of a 10-member Board of Trustees and is led by a Chief Executive Officer, supported by 17 directors and seven artistic and creative leaders.

Performances are labour-intensive and rely on a large number of behind-the-scenes personnel. The Corporation employs people with varied specialized skills. A large number of employees, whose work is dependent on the demands of programming and sales, have variable schedules and work on an as-needed basis. The National Arts Centre Orchestra’s musicians are self-employed, although a collective agreement sets out their fees and working conditions at the Centre and while on tour.

A large number of employees, whose work is dependent on the demands of programming and sales, have variable schedules and work on an as-needed basis. The National Arts Centre Orchestra’s musicians are self-employed, although a collective agreement sets out their fees and working conditions at the Centre and while on tour.

Financial Resources

Funding for the Corporation’s activities is derived from programming revenues through ticket sales and fees, commercial revenues from food and beverage sales, parking and hall rentals, grants from the National Arts Centre Foundation, parliamentary appropriations and other sources, such as interest and facility fees. The Corporation is a registered charity and the National Arts Centre Foundation is the agency through which it raises funds. Fundraising revenues arise from special events, individual donations, sponsorships, planned giving and legacies, and corporate gifts.
FINANCIAL OVERVIEW

For the year ended August 31, 2013, the Corporation is reporting a surplus from operations of $226,000.

The operating results are $226,000 better than the planned break-even budget. Throughout the Corporation, management has undertaken cost and cost-reduction measures contended to be undertaken.

Total revenues, including legislative appropriations, have decreased by $1,312,000 to $69,936,000. Within this total, earned revenues decreased by $431,000 and parliamentary appropriations decreased by $831,000. Total expenditures have also decreased by $1,944,000 to $69,710,000.

In the Federal Budget 2012, the Corporation was informed that it would be contributing to the government's savings measures. The first year of the three years of savings measures resulted in a reduction of the NAC's parliamentary appropriations by $44,000, while the current fiscal year's reductions were $825,000.

Cost-cutting measures implemented in 2010–2011 have proven effective in avoiding operating deficits. Retrospective to September 1, 2011, the Corporation adopted Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS).

The implementation of these standards required the Corporation to retrospectively restate the Statement of Operations for fiscal 2012, and adjust the accumulated surplus/deficit. These changes are presented in detail in Note 3 of the Financial Statements. The changes have resulted in a restatement of the 2011-2012 net results of operations from a deficit of $139,000 to a deficit of $406,000. The Accumulated Deficit as of August 31, 2012 was adjusted from an accumulated surplus of $31,000 to an accumulated deficit of $6,199,000. After the operating surplus of $226,000, the accumulated deficit as at year-end is $1,393,000.

These restatements are mostly due to changes in long-standing industry accounting practices. In the past, expenses incurred for multi-year activities, such as subscription advertising, NAC Orchestra tours and Scene festivals, were recognized when the event occurred and the matching revenue was recognized. We now must recognize the expense in the fiscal year that it occurs. In addition, under PSAS, we are now required to recognize a liability for accumulated sick leave earned but not taken by employees, estimated at $225,000.

SELECTED FINANCIAL RESULTS

Programming

Programming activities consist mainly of the fire subscription discipline in Music, English Theatre, French Theatre, Dance and NAC Presents, plus a variety of other programs such as Galas, festivals and the biennial Scenes. Box Office, Marketing, Production and New Media support these activities.

The National Arts Centre celebrated the Year of the North during the 2012–2013 season with two major initiatives: the NAC Orchestra's Northern Canada Tour of all three northern territories, including six concerts and more than 65 educational activities from October 26 to November 4, 2012, and the Northern Scene festival, which celebrated the work of 355 of the North's best emerging and established artists to the Nation's Capital for 78 events at 25 venues from April 25 to May 4, 2013.

Programming revenues consist largely of ticket sales. Year-to-year variability in revenues and expenses is very much dependent on the type of performances that are programmed in any given year. The biennial production of the 2012–2013 Northern Scene increased Fees and Grants by $725,000 in the current year.

However, the previous year included grants totalling $137,000 from the Canada Council for the Arts for the biennial festival Zeno Théâtraux. Single ticket sales from all sources were lower by $933,000 in the current year, excluding the Scene's sales of $43,000, while subscription ticket sales saw a modest increase of $38,000. However, programming expenses also dropped by $1,725,000, excluding Northern Scene's expenses of $1,390,000.

Music's revenues were $160,000 lower than the previous year, mostly due to the production of The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring in the previous year's summer programming. Expenses increased by $48,000 with a $414,000 increase due to China pre-tour costs being partially offset by reductions in Summer Programming costs.

English Theatre's revenues were lower by $555,000 in the current year, in large part due to the phenomenal successes of Olivier, 2 Pians 4 Hands and Wit, End Ill: Love Life in the previous year's programming lineup. Less elaborate productions in the current year also meant lower productions costs by $745,000, which more than compensated for the reduced revenue.

Commercial Operations

Food, beverage and parking sales, and the rental of halls (performance spaces) generate the Commercial revenues. Revenues from food, beverage and parking vary with the level of programming and attendance. Rental revenues vary based on both the availability of touring productions, and the availability of the Centre's halls on dates suitable to touring companies. Offering food, beverages and parking to customers enhances the experience of an evening's performance and provides an additional financial support to the Corporation's activities.

The rental of the Centre's performance spaces also offers a cost-effective way of presenting variety, opera, symphonic and Broadway-type productions in the National Capital Region, without the risk and costs involved in developing and managing large productions.

Parking's net income was $102,000 higher, mostly due to rate increases, with staff and monthly parking revenues increasing by 17% and 3% respectively. The net income from the rental of halls has increased by $115,000, largely due to an increase in the number of productions. However, the net results from restaurant, catering and intermission bars declined by $195,000, mostly due to a reported drop of nearly 20% of transient traffic into Ottawa in the fall of 2012, followed by continued declines — albeit slightly lower in the winter and spring of 2013.

Parliamentary Appropriations

Parliamentary appropriations for operations exclude funds invested in capital assets. The parliamentary appropriations for operations include special purpose grants for the Governor General's Performing Arts Awards Gala and Zeno Théâtraux. The Federal Government’s Budget 2012 savings measures resulted in an annual reduction of government funding of $825,000 in the 2013 fiscal year.

Maintaining the National Arts Centre

Work continues on the refurbishment of the Centre's infrastructure funded from Treasury Board's risk management reserve. The refurbishment of the Centre's elevators, stage lifts, exterior lighting, fire alarm panel and garage structure is complete. With only 10% of the original funding remaining, the Corporation is planning to have the fire alarm systems, security servers and systems, new elevator installations, lighting commissioning and electrical studies completed by the spring of 2014. The Restricted cash held for specific capital projects account on the Statement of Financial Position reflects the value of the unused funds at year-end.

These projects have experienced delays for a variety of reasons — a common situation for a renovation of an existing structure. The uniqueness of the Centre's construction compounds the situation. In addition, costs are exceeding initial estimates and the scope of the projects has changed to conform to the funding. To date, there have been no claims against the Corporation and no injuries reported to the Corporation from the construction, nor has the Centre experienced any disruptions to its performances and services.
There are still many of the Centre’s systems that have exceeded their estimated lifespan, and the quality of the original equipment has allowed the Centre to operate without a major disruption. In 2011, an independent engineering consultant produced a 30-year capital plan outlining the work required to correct deficiencies or degraded conditions in the short term, and a forecast of replacement requirements over the long term. The building audit included a review of the building envelope, structural, mechanical and electrical systems, and elevating devices. The Building Condition Report concluded that significant repairs and upgrades are required to the Centre’s physical infrastructure. In 2012–2013, the identification of three major capital renewal projects indicates that significant funding will be required to proceed with the Centre’s renewal. Internationally respected consultants have been hired to produce plans and cost estimates for the architectural rejuvenation project, the production facilities and equipment improvement project, and the building renovation project. Reports detailing cost estimates for all three projects are expected to be tabled within the next year.

The construction of the Light Rail Transit’s downtown tunnel in the immediate vicinity of the Centre includes the risk of adverse impact on the operation of the NAC, due to both the intrusion of noise and vibrations during the construction and operational phases of the project. Representatives of the Corporation, along with consulting engineers, have been involved with the City of Ottawa’s Rail Implementation Office to establish acceptable noise and vibration levels. These teams will continue meeting and monitoring as the project advances to ensure that the noise level in the final design does not exceed the agreed-to specifications. With these measures in place, the audience’s enjoyment of NAC performances should not be adversely affected.

Funding outcubes, in both the government and private sectors, may affect the Corporation’s financing, and the financing of its artistic partners in years to come. The Corporation has little latitude for cost cutting once the season has been announced and contracts signed.

The Corporation’s self-generated revenues rely heavily on the sales of tickets, meals, parking and gifts from individuals and corporations — goods and services that are best described as discretionary purchases. The uncertain global economic conditions have affected and may continue to influence the financial environment and warrants concern, especially for ticket, parking and restaurant sales.

There has been progress in the repairs to the Centre’s systems, but new challenges are arising. Public Works and Government Services Canada (PWGSC) is proposing changes to the operation of their central heating plant. The size, function and complexity of the Centre require the Corporation to operate ventilation systems which use steam for heating. PWGSC is proposing to supply hot water for heating, requiring larger systems. While the Corporation supports reducing the environmental impact of its operations, the impact on the operation of the Centre will be significant and disruptive. At this time, there is no indication when this work will be undertaken.

The Federal Government’s Budget 2012 savings measures outlined reductions to the Corporation’s parliamentary appropriations over a three-year period. The Corporation has aggressively pursued new sources of revenue and reduced expenses, including a reduced number of employees that took effect in 2012–2013, in order to adapt to the new realities. The Corporation has presented a balanced budget for 2013–2014.

The popularity of the NAC’s national educational, touring and outreach programs (such as the Scenes) continues to grow. The Corporation will continue to pursue its goals of artistic expansion, excellence and relevance on the national stage in the performing arts, while respecting the need for tight financial management.

The National Arts Centre Orchestra’s recently completed China Tour was the first-ever tour of China in the Orchestra’s 44-year history. From October 4 to October 21, 2013, 70 musicians from the Orchestra travelled to schools and concert halls in Beijing, Hong Kong, Guangzhou, Tianjin, Chongqing, Fuling and Shanghai. With the support of Honorary Patron Richard Li and Presenting Partner Amlin, the NAC Orchestra performed eight major concerts and participated in more than 80 education and outreach activities, including two international broadband videoconference events linking young musicians in Canada and China. The NAC Foundation worked hard to secure an impressive array of private sector sponsorship.

For her second season as Artistic Director of French Theatre, Brigitte Haentjens has programmed a strong, 19-show season that includes innovative projects packed with emotion: To draw a line, a choreographic creation signed by Brigitte; Libertines, en cinq temps, Michel Tremblay’s masterpiece; Le promeneur, a multidisciplinary experience connecting art and the community in new and unexpected ways through an ambulatory adventure; Ce qui nous relie / A meditation project which will give the floor to adolescents; and the North American exclusive of the extraordinary Conduite by Joel Pommeret.

In English Theatre, Artistic Director Julian Kreiter will highlight the NAC’s 10-member, national 2013–2014 Ensemble in productions of Tartuffe, The Sound of Music and Zorba. The season also includes seven outstanding shows from across Canada, including Sois directed by Sominitch Prize-winner Chris Abraham, a Porte Parole (Montreal)/Crown’s Theatre (Toronto) production based on Saskatchewan farmer Percy Schmeissener’s fight against a multinational bio-tech corporation; and Kore Consequences, a Soulpepper Theatre (Toronto) production that was named “Best Canadian Play” at the 2012 Toronto Theatre Critics’ Awards.

In Dance, Executive Producer Cathy Levy invites audiences to “Come re-imagine the familiar and discover the new... in a celebration of the versatility and diversity of this most beautiful of art forms.” The 2013–2014 season includes internationally acclaimed presentations by the Pennsylvania Ballet, Cloud Gate Dance Theatre of Taiwan, Wayne McGregor | Random Dance, Compagnie Maguy Marin, Australia’s Lucy Guerin, Dave St-Pierre and Tango Legends, as well as Canadian exclusives of Dance Theatre of Harlem and Hubbard Street Dance Chicago. The season will see Alakran Khan return in his critically acclaimed DESH, and the Canadian premiere of Akshay Oberoi’s Rising. The winter and spring will bring the second edition of the intimate and provocative series Pas à Pas, the long-awaited return of Les Grands Ballets Canadiens de Montréal, the National Ballet of Canada’s gorgeous Swan Lake, the NAC debut of Compagnie Vangeline Brissette and Israel Galván, the highly anticipated Radio Show by award-winning Kyle Abraham, and The NaiwaWuK, performed this year by Canada’s Royal Winnipeg Ballet. A total of 20 companies from nine countries will grace the stages in this spectacular season.

Producer Simone Deneau’s third season of NAC Presents expands to 60 concerts, featuring wonderful artists who have been a big part of making the series an amazing success, as well as many newcomers. Offering audiences the opportunity to hear what the future of music in Canada sounds like, the season will feature established artists such as Jilly Black, The Tenors, Joel Plaskett with the NAC Orchestra, Robert Charlebois, (who will be Celebrating 50 Years of Music and Songs), Rufus Wainwright, Phil Nimmons and David Brass, to name a few.
Management is responsible for the preparation of the financial statements and the annual report. Responsibility for their review is that of the Audit Committee of the Board of Trustees. The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards (PSAS) for Government Not-for-profit Organizations and include estimates based on Management’s experience and judgement. The financial statements have been approved by the Board of Trustees on the recommendation of the Audit Committee. Other financial and operating information appearing in the annual report is consistent with that contained in the financial statements.

Management maintains books and records, financial and management control and information systems designed in such a manner as to provide reasonable assurance that reliable and accurate information is produced on a timely basis and that the transactions are in accordance with the applicable provisions of Part X of the Financial Administration Act and regulations, the National Arts Centre Act, and the by-laws of the Corporation.

The Board of Trustees of the Corporation is responsible for ensuring that Management fulfills its responsibilities for financial reporting and internal control, and exercises this responsibility through the Audit Committee. The Audit Committee discharges the responsibilities conferred upon it by the Board of Trustees and meets on a regular basis with Management and with the Auditor General of Canada, who has unrestricted access to the Committee.

The Auditor General of Canada conducts an independent audit of the complete financial statements of the Corporation in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards and on an annual basis reports on the results of that audit and with the Auditor General of Canada, who has unrestricted access to the Committee.

Management’s Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation of the financial statements and the annual report. Responsibility for their preparation and fair presentation is of these financial statements in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor’s Responsibility

My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audits. I conducted my audits in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that I comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor’s judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity’s preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity’s internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

I believe that the audit evidence I have obtained in my audits is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for my audit opinion.

Opinion

In my opinion, the financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the National Arts Centre Corporation as at 31 August 2013, 31 August 2012 and 1 September 2011, the statements of operations, statements of changes in accumulated deficit and statements of cash flows for the years ended 31 August 2013 and 31 August 2012, and the statement of remeasurement gains and losses for the year ended 31 August 2013, and a summary of significant accounting policies and other explanatory information.

I believe that the audit evidence I have obtained in my audits is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for my audit opinion.

Opinion

In my opinion, the financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the National Arts Centre Corporation as at 31 August 2013, 31 August 2012 and 1 September 2011, the results of its operations and its cash flows for the years ended 31 August 2013 and 31 August 2012, and its remeasurement gains and losses for the year ended 31 August 2013, in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards.

Report on Other Legal and Regulatory Requirements

As required by the Financial Administration Act, I report that, in my opinion, the accounting principles in Canadian public sector accounting standards have been applied, after giving retrospective effect to the adoption of the new standards as explained in Note 3 to the financial statements except for the change in the method of accounting for financial instruments as explained in Note 4 to the financial statements, on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Further, in my opinion, the transactions of the National Arts Centre Corporation that have come to my notice during my audits of the financial statements have, in all significant respects, been in accordance with the applicable provisions of Part X of the Financial Administration Act and regulations, the National Arts Centre Act, and the by-laws of the National Arts Centre Corporation.

1. AUTHORITY, OBJECTIVES AND OPERATIONS

The National Arts Centre Corporation (the “Corporation”) was established in 1966 pursuant to the National Arts Centre Act and began operating the National Arts Centre (the “Centre”) in 1969. The Corporation is not subject to the provisions of the Income Tax Act. In accordance with Section 85 (1.1) of Part X of the Financial Administration Act, Divisions I to IV of the Act do not apply to the Corporation, except for subsection 105(2) and sections 113.1, 119, 131 to 148 and section 154.01, which do apply to the Corporation. The Corporation is deemed, under Section 15 of the National Arts Centre Act, to be a registered charity within the meaning of that expression in the Income Tax Act. The Corporation is not an agent of Her Majesty. Except for the purposes of the Public Service Superannuation Act and the Government Employees Superannuation Act, employees of the Corporation are not part of the federal public administration.

The objectives of the Corporation are to operate and maintain the Centre, to develop the performing arts in the National Capital Region, and to assist the Canada Council for the Arts in the development of the performing arts elsewhere in Canada. In furtherance of its objectives, the Corporation may arrange for and sponsor performing arts activities at the Centre; encourage and assist in the development of performing arts companies resident at the Centre; arrange for or sponsor radio and television broadcasts and the screening of films in the Centre; provide accommodation at the Centre, on such terms and conditions as the Corporation may fix; for national and local organizations whose objectives include the development and encouragement of the performing arts in Canada; and, at the request of the Government of Canada or the Canada Council for the Arts, arrange for performances elsewhere in Canada by performing arts companies, whether resident or non-resident in Canada, and arrange for performances outside Canada by performing arts companies resident in Canada.

The Corporation receives funding from the Government of Canada through parliamentary appropriations. The Government of Canada provides funding to the Corporation through parliamentary appropriations. Parliamentary appropriations for operating expenditures are recognized as revenue in the Statement of Operations in the fiscal period for which they are approved. Parliamentary appropriations received in advance, or for specific projects are recorded as deferred parliamentary appropriations in the Statement of Financial Position and recognized as revenue in the Statement of Operations in the period that the related expenditures are incurred. Similarly, parliamentary appropriations approved but not received at August 31 are recorded as a receivable.

Parliamentary appropriations received and explicitly or implicitly restricted for the purchase of amortizable capital assets are initially recorded as deferred parliamentary appropriations on the Statement of Financial Position. When a purchase is made, the portion of parliamentary appropriations used to make the purchase is recorded as deferred capital funding and is amortized on the same basis and over the same period as the related capital assets acquired.

Donations in kind are recorded at their estimated fair value when they are received. Volunteers contribute a significant number of hours each year. Because of the difficulty of determining the fair value, contributed services from volunteers are not recognized in these financial statements.

2. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

These financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards (PSAS) for government not-for-profit organizations (GNFPO). The Corporation has prepared the financial statements applying the Section 4200 series of PSAS, and has elected to use the deferral method of accounting for contributions. A summary of the significant accounting policies follows:

a) Revenue recognition

i) Parliamentary appropriations

The Government of Canada provides funding to the Corporation through parliamentary appropriations. Parliamentary appropriations for operating expenditures are recognized as revenue in the Statement of Operations in the fiscal period for which they are approved. Parliamentary appropriations received in advance, or for specific projects are recorded as deferred parliamentary appropriations in the Statement of Financial Position and recognized as revenue in the Statement of Operations in the period that the related expenditures are incurred. Similarly, parliamentary appropriations approved but not received at August 31 are recorded as a receivable.

Parliamentary appropriations received and explicitly or implicitly restricted for the purchase of amortizable capital assets are initially recorded as deferred parliamentary appropriations on the Statement of Financial Position. When a purchase is made, the portion of parliamentary appropriations used to make the purchase is recorded as deferred capital funding and is amortized on the same basis and over the same period as the related capital assets acquired.

Donations in kind are recorded at their estimated fair value when they are received. Volunteers contribute a significant number of hours each year. Because of the difficulty of determining the fair value, contributed services from volunteers are not recognized in these financial statements.

ii) Commercial and programming revenue

Revenue from commercial operations and performances is recognized in the year in which services are provided or the performance takes place. Funds received in return for future services are recorded in deferred revenue.

iii) Other income

Other income is recognized in the period in which it is earned.

iv) Investment income

Investment income is recognized in the period in which it is earned using the effective interest rate method.

b) Cash

Cash is measured at cost.

c) Investments

Investments are measured at amortized cost. A gain or loss is charged to investment income when realized, or when a decline in value is considered to be a permanent impairment of value. The assets of this portfolio may be sold in response to a change in the Corporation’s liquidity requirements or at the discretion of the Corporation’s external investment counsel, within the limits of the Investment Policy established by the Board of Trustees.

d) Accounts receivable

Accounts receivable are initially recognized at fair value and are subsequently measured at amortized cost. The Corporation establishes an allowance for doubtful accounts that reflects the estimated impairment of accounts receivable. The allowance is based on specific accounts and is determined by considering the Corporation’s knowledge of the financial condition of its customers, the aging of accounts receivable, and current business and political climate. All write downs against accounts receivable are recorded within operating expenditures on the Statement of Operations.

e) Inventories

Inventories which consist of food, beverages and supplies are valued at the lower of cost and net realizable value. Cost is determined using the first in, first out method.

f) Prepaid expenses

Prepaid expenses include expenditures made for services to be received in the future, such as property taxes paid in advance, insurance premiums, artistic rights, and fees paid to artists in advance of the performance.

g) Capital Assets

Acquired capital assets are recorded at cost, net of accumulated amortization. Cost includes direct costs as well as certain overhead costs directly attributable to the asset.

Building improvements that extend the useful life or service potential of buildings are capitalized and recorded at cost. Building improvements are amortized over the lesser of the remaining useful life of the building or the estimated useful life of the improvement.

The Centre was completed in 1969 and held by the Government of Canada until ownership was transferred to the Corporation in 2000. The building, improvements and equipment were recorded at their estimated historical cost, less accumulated amortization. Land transferred to the Corporation was recorded at a nominal value as the historical cost could not be reasonably determined at the date of the transfer.
Amortization is calculated using the straight-line method, over the estimated useful lives of the assets as follows:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Asset Category</th>
<th>Useful Life</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Buildings and works of art</td>
<td>20 to 40 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Building improvements and infrastructure</td>
<td>5 to 40 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Equipment</td>
<td>3 to 15 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Computer equipment</td>
<td>3 to 5 years</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Amounts included in assets under construction are transferred to the appropriate capital classification upon completion and are amortized once available for use.

h) Accounts payable and accrued liabilities

Accounts payable and accrued liabilities are measured at amortized cost.

i) Cost allocation

The Corporation has presented expenses by function. The commercial operations and programming expenses are further described in schedules 1 and 2. The costs associated with building operations, administration and information technology are not allocated to commercial operations or programming expenses. These functions are important for the achievement of the Corporation’s objectives and management believes that allocating these costs to other functions would not add additional value. Amortization of capital assets is attributed to the function in which the assets are primarily utilized. Direct costs incurred in fundraising activities are charged to the National Arts Centre Foundation.

j) Employee future benefits

i) Pension plans

Eligible employees of the Corporation participate in the Public Service Pension Plan, the Musicians’ Pension Fund of Canada, or the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees pension plan.

The public service pension plan is a contributory defined benefit plan established through legislation and sponsored by the Government of Canada. Contributions are required by both the employees and the Corporation to cover current service costs. According to current legislation, the Corporation has no legal or constructive obligation to make further contributions with respect to any deficiencies of the plan, however there may be obligations created when eligible employees make current contributions for past service.

The Musicians’ Pension Fund of Canada is a multi employer defined benefit plan established through collective bargaining between the Corporation and the American Federation of Musicians. The plan is funded through contributions by employees. Employee contributions are not required nor are they permitted.

The International Alliance of Theatre Stage Employees pension plan is a multi employer defined contribution plan. The plan is funded through contributions from the members and the Corporation, established by the collective bargaining process between the Corporation and the International Alliance of Theatre Stage Employees.

Pension plan contributions are recognized as an expense in the year when employees have rendered service and represents the total pension obligation of the Corporation.

ii) Employee severance and sick leave benefits

Certain employees are entitled to severance benefits as provided for under their respective collective agreements or the terms and conditions of their employment. The cost of severance benefits is recognized over the periods in which the employees render services to the Corporation. The liability is calculated based on management’s best estimates and assumptions taking into consideration historical employment data.

Most employees of the Corporation are entitled to accumulating but non-vesting sick leave benefits as provided for under their respective collective agreements or the terms and conditions of their employment. The Corporation recognizes the cost of future sick leave benefits over the periods in which the employees render services to the Corporation and the liability for the benefits is recognized based on the probability of usage by employees established per historical data.

k) Foreign currency translation

Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in a foreign currency are translated into Canadian dollars using the exchange rate at year end. Non-monetary items are translated at the historical exchange rates. Revenues, expenses, and capital acquisitions are translated at exchange rates in effect at the time of the transaction. Realized foreign currency exchange gains or losses for the year are included in financial charges.

l) Measurement uncertainty

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with PSAS requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the amounts of revenue and expenses for the year. The most significant estimates involve the determination of the provision for employee future benefits, the estimated useful life of capital assets, deferred parliamentary appropriations, the allowance for doubtful accounts, and the allocation of overhead costs to assets under construction. Actual results could differ significantly from those estimates.

m) Contingent liabilities

Contingent liabilities are potential liabilities which may become actual liabilities when one or more future events occur or fail to occur. If the future event is likely to occur or fail to occur, and a reasonable estimate of the loss can be made, an estimated liability is recognized and an expense is recorded. If the likelihood is not determinable or an amount cannot be reasonably estimated, the contingency is disclosed in the notes to the financial statements.

3. TRANSITION TO PUBLIC SECTOR ACCOUNTING STANDARDS

Effective September 1, 2011, the Corporation adopted PSAS including the 4200 series of accounting standards applicable for Government Not-For-Profit Organizations. This change has been applied retrospectively and prior periods have been restated except for the accounting standards contained in PS 3450 Financial Instruments, as this standard specifically prohibits retrospective application, see note 4. The Corporation has elected to make use of an optional exemption of PSAS section 2125 – first time adoption by government organizations, regarding retrospective write-down of tangible capital assets. Consequently, conditions for a write down of tangible capital assets in Section 3150 are applied on a prospective basis from the date of transition. The adoption of PSAS has changed amounts reported in prior periods as follows:
a) Expenditures incurred to advertise and promote future performances are now expensed as incurred, rather than recognized as an asset in programs in progress. Additionally, certain intangible assets are expensed as incurred and are no longer deferred to the future performances to which they relate. The total reduction in programs in progress amounted to $1,425,000 ($1,158,000 in 2011). The remaining balance of programs in progress of $1,158,000 in 2011), resulting in a restated accumulated deficit of $1,619,000 ($1,213,000 in 2011).

b) Under PSAS the Corporation must recognize a liability for employee compensated absences (sick leave). A retrospective adjustment in the amount of $225,000 has been made to recognize this obligation.

c) Other comprehensive income is not recognized under PSAS applicable for government not-for-profit organizations. Consequently restricted donations received that have not been spent by the end of the year are now included in deferred revenue. As a result $60,000 from accumulated other comprehensive income has been reclassified to deferred revenue (nil in 2011). In addition restricted contributions from non-owners (received and recognized) of $4,511,000 has also been derecognized.

d) As a result of the changes listed above, the previously reported accumulated surplus of $31,000 ($170,000 in 2011) has been reduced by $1,650,000 ($1,383,000 in 2011), resulting in a restated accumulated deficit of $1,619,000 ($1,213,000 in 2011).

4. CHANGE IN ACCOUNTING POLICY

As part of the transition to PSAS, the Corporation has adopted section 3450, Financial Instruments. The standard states that when a government organization applies this standard in the same year as it adopts PSAS for the first time, this standard cannot be applied retroactively. Comparative amounts are presented in accordance with the accounting policies applied by the government organization immediately preceding its adoption of PSAS.

In adopting this new standard, investments are now measured at amortized cost. Investments had previously been recorded at fair value. Considering that section 3450 is not applied retroactively, the 2012 and 2011 investment balances have not been restated and consequently have been measured at fair value. The unrealized gains and losses associated to those balances remain in accumulated other comprehensive income which are included in unrestricted accumulated deficit (below). In addition, the ending balance of the accumulated other comprehensive income for the year ended August 31, 2012, after considering PSAS transitions adjustments, became the opening balance of the accumulated re measurement gains for the year ended August 31, 2013.

Unrestricted accumulated deficit is composed of:

5. INVESTMENTS

Under its Investment Policy, the Corporation may invest in fixed income securities. To minimize credit risk, all investments purchased are rated “BBB” (investment grade) or better by a recognized bond-rating agency. Fair value is determined primarily by published price quotations. To mitigate the effect of liquidity risk, maturity dates are varied. Maturity dates extend to December 2041 (December 2053 in 2012) (December 2053 in 2011). To reduce other market risks, the investments are managed by professional investment counsel, in accordance with the Investment Policy established by the Board of Trustees. This Investment Policy establishes asset allocation requirements, minimum credit ratings, and diversification criteria. Interest income from these investments, net of management fees, amounted to $458,394 ($465,617 in 2012) and is included in Investment income in the Statement of Operations.
Notes to the financial statements

The book value of the investments as of August 31, 2012 and as of September 1, 2012 is equal to fair value.

6. ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE

Accounts receivable include amounts collectible from commercial operations, recoverable taxes, and settlements with programming partners. The majority of accounts receivable are unsecured, and are subject to credit risk. Management regularly reviews the account balances and uses available information to authorize credit, to establish a provision for uncollectible accounts, and to determine permanent impairment. Any provision for bad debts is recognized in financial charges and bad debts. A provision of $960,330 ($1,018,654 in 2012) ($1,001,924 in 2011) has been made based on an account by account analysis that considers the aging of the account and the current creditworthiness of each customer.

7. RESTRICTED CASH HELD FOR SPECIFIED CAPITAL PROJECTS AND DEFERRED PARLIAMENTARY APPROPRIATIONS, SPECIFIED CAPITAL PROJECTS

On November 2, 2006, the Treasury Board of Canada approved funding for health and safety upgrades and repairs to the existing facilities of the National Arts Centre. Restricted cash held for specified capital projects represents the unused portion of parliamentary appropriations received and designated for the refurbishment of certain building structures and mechanical systems within the National Arts Centre. The funds earn a variable rate of interest, which is recorded in other income. Changes in the fund balance are as follows:

12. EMPLOYEE FUTURE BENEFITS

a) Public Service Pension plans

The majority of employees of the Corporation are covered by the public service pension plan (the “Plan”), a contributory defined benefit plan established through legislation and sponsored by the Government of Canada. Contributions are required by both the employees and the Corporation. The President of the Treasury Board of Canada sets the required employer contributions based on a multiple of the employees’ required contribution. The general contribution rate is currently 1.64 times the employee contribution and 1.57 times the employee contribution for new employees hired after December 31, 2012 (1.74 times for 2012).

The Government of Canada holds a statutory obligation for the payment of benefits relating to the Plan. Pension benefits generally accrue up to a maximum period of 35 years at an annual rate of 2% of reasonable service times the average of the best five consecutive years of earnings. The benefits are coordinated with Canada/Quebec Pension Plan benefits and they are indexed to inflation.

The Corporation’s and employees’ contributions to the pension plans during the year are as follows:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Public Service Pension Plan</th>
<th>2013</th>
<th>2012</th>

<td>$ 2,353</td>
<td>$ 2,443</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Employees</td>
<td>1,274</td>
<td>1,230</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

b) Other Pension Plans

The Corporation and eligible employees contribute to the Musician’s Pension Fund of Canada, or the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees pension plan. The Musician’s Pension Fund of Canada provides benefits based on years of service and average earnings upon retirement. The International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees pension plan is a defined contribution plan. Contributions to these plans are determined through the collective bargaining process.

The Corporation’s and employees’ contributions to the pension plans during the year are as follows:

c) Employee severance and sick leave benefits

The Corporation provides severance benefits to its employees upon their departure, provided certain qualifications are met. The obligation is calculated based on years of service, salary, and the nature of the departure. Management uses estimates to determine the overall amount of the obligation using the Corporation’s historical experience and current trends. Although the Corporation has not segregated assets for the purpose of meeting this future obligation, it will fund the benefits as they become due from the Corporation’s assets and future parliamentary appropriations. For most employees, the severance benefit will be phased out. On September 1, 2013, years of service will cease to accumulate, however employees will continue to be eligible for the benefits that have been earned to that date. Eligible employees may also elect to receive payment for a portion of the benefit that has vested.
The Corporation provides cumulative sick leave benefits to its employees. Employees accumulate unused sick leave days which may be used in future years. An employee’s unused sick leave balance is carried forward until the employee departs the Corporation, at which point any unused balance lapses.

Information about these benefits, measured as at the statement of Financial Position date is as follows:

13. GRANT FROM THE NATIONAL ARTS CENTRE FOUNDATION

The National Arts Centre Foundation (the “Foundation”) was incorporated under the Canada Corporations Act in July 2000 and is a registered charity. Although the Foundation is a separate legal entity from the Corporation, it is closely related because the Corporation exercises significant influence over the operation, financing and strategic planning of the Foundation.

The Foundation raises funds from individuals, foundations and corporations to support the National Arts Centre’s programs. During this fiscal year, direct expenses related to fundraising costs, in the amount of $2,470,958 ($2,402,084 in 2012) represents endowment funds and is to be maintained in perpetuity.

The financial position of the Foundation as at August 31 and the results of operations for the year then ended were reported as follows:

</table>

An amount of $1,586,076 ($768,861 in 2012) of the Foundation’s net assets is subject to donor-imposed restrictions, and an additional $2,470,958 ($2,402,084 in 2012) represents endowment funds and is to be maintained in perpetuity.

At August 31, the balance owing to the Foundation from the Corporation was $441,048 ($120,417 in 2012).

14. PARLIAMENTARY APPROPRIATIONS

The Corporation receives parliamentary appropriations from the Government of Canada to support its operating and capital activities. The table below illustrates the parliamentary appropriations received during the fiscal year, and the accounting adjustments required to arrive at the calculation of revenue that conforms to PSAS.

Supplementary estimates of $75,000 ($150,000 in 2012) pertain to special funding for French language programming.

15. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

In addition to those related party transactions disclosed elsewhere in these financial statements, the Corporation had the following transactions:

The Corporation is related to all Government of Canada departments, agencies and Crown corporations. The Corporation enters into transactions with these entities in the normal course of business, and these transactions are measured at exchange amounts which is the amount of consideration established and agreed upon by the related parties. During the year, the Corporation incurred expenses totalling $4,234,644 ($4,469,628 in 2011), and recorded commercial and programming revenues of $986,240 ($1,346,566 in 2012) ($1,300,671 in 2011). As at August 31*, the Corporation recorded accounts receivable with related parties of $28,132 ($41,481 in 2012) ($36,722 in 2011) and accounts payable of $619,657 ($385,878 in 2012) ($457,997 in 2011).

During the year the Corporation incurred expenses with key management personnel or parties related to them in the amount of $4,234,644 ($4,469,628 in 2011), and recorded commercial and programming revenues of $986,240 ($1,346,566 in 2012) ($1,300,671 in 2011). As at August 31*, the Corporation recorded accounts receivable with related parties of $28,132 ($41,481 in 2012) ($36,722 in 2011) and accounts payable of $619,657 ($385,878 in 2012) ($457,997 in 2011).

The Corporation also receives services from related parties, such as financial statement audits without charge, which have not been reflected in these financial statements.
16. CONTINGENCIES

In the normal course of business, various claims and legal actions have been brought against the Corporation. The outcome of these actions is not likely to result in any material amounts. In the event that such losses were likely to be incurred and the costs were reasonably estimable, a liability would be accrued and an expense recorded in the Corporation's financial statements. The amount accrued for contingent liabilities as at August 31, 2013 was nil (nil in 2012 and nil in 2011).

17. CONTRACTUAL OBLIGATIONS

As at August 31, 2013, there is $7,392,000 ($10,080,000 in 2012, $9,906,000 in 2011) to be paid pursuant to long-term contracts. The contractual obligations relate primarily to programming and building maintenance. The future minimum payments are as follows:

18. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Credit risk:
Credit risk is the risk of financial loss to the Corporation associated with a counterparty's failure to fulfill its financial obligations. The Corporation is subject to credit risk as follows:

i) Cash
The Corporation has deposits of $13,755,505 ($14,771,441 in 2012) ($21,267,369 in 2011), with reputable financial institutions that are members of the Canadian Payment Association. The Corporation has determined that the risk of loss due to credit risk in not significant.

ii) Accounts receivable
The Corporation has accounts receivable of $1,595,666 ($1,141,712 in 2012) ($3,065,000 in 2011). The Corporation manages the credit risk associated to its accounts receivable by closely monitoring the issuance and collection of credit to commercial clients and artistic partners. As at August 31, 2013 unimpaired accounts receivable over 120 days was $36,675 ($18,875 in 2012) ($40,635 in 2011).

iii) Investments
The Corporation has investments of $11,906,869 ($13,090,793 in 2012) ($12,689,000 in 2011). The Investment Policy limits the Corporation to investment grade fixed income securities and cash equivalents, which significantly lowers credit risk.

The maximum credit risk exposure of the Corporation is represented by the value of cash deposits, accounts receivable and investments as presented in the Statement of Financial Position.

Liquidity risk:
Liquidity risk is the risk that an entity will encounter difficulty in meeting obligations associated with financial liabilities that are settled by the delivery of cash or another financial asset as they become due.

The Corporation manages this risk by establishing realistic budgets, and adapting to changing environments throughout the year. The Corporation also manages its cash flow by maintaining sufficient cash balances to meet current obligations, and investing in high quality government and corporate bonds that can be liquidated should an unexpected obligation materialize.

As at August 31, 2013, the Corporation’s accounts payable and accrued liabilities are due within 365 days (365 days in 2012 and 2011). The Corporation has determined that the risk is not significant because it maintains sufficient cash to meet its current obligations and maintains short term investments that can be redeemed as needed.

Market risk:
Market risk is the risk that the fair value of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market prices. Market risk comprises three types of risk: currency risk, interest rate risk, and other price risk. The Corporation is subject to currency risk and interest rate risk. The Corporation has determined that the risk is not significant.

The Corporation is subject to interest rate risk on its investments and cash balances. If the interest rates were 1% lower during the year, the interest revenue would have been approximately $256,000 lower ($291,000 in 2012). The portfolio is invested in bonds with a variety of maturity dates which reduces the effect of interest rate risk.

The Corporation is subject to foreign currency exchange rate risk on its cash, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities denominated in foreign currencies, primarily U.S. dollars. Periodically, the Corporation will mitigate this risk by hedging a portion of its foreign currency obligations. At August 31 there are no significant balances denominated in foreign currency (not significant in 2012 and 2011).

Fair value:
Due to the short-term maturity of these financial instruments, the carrying value of cash, accounts receivable and accounts payable and accrued liabilities approximates their fair value.

19. FINANCIAL RESTRUCTURING COSTS

On March 29, 2012 the Federal Government announced its budget which included $5.2 billion in annual savings by 2014-15. As part of that budget, the NAC’s Parliamentary Appropriations was reduced by $105,000 in the government fiscal year 2012-13, $1,835,000 in fiscal 2013-14, and $1,935,000 in fiscal 2014-15, an effective reduction of 5.43% of the total Parliamentary Appropriation. As a result of this current and future reduction in revenue, the Board of Trustees authorized a financial restructuring plan to balance revenues and expenses of the Corporation. In this fiscal year, the Corporation incurred costs associated with workforce reduction amounting to $ nil ($460,447 in 2012).

Dear Friends,

The 2012–2013 season was a very successful year for the National Arts Centre Foundation. Individual donors, corporate partners and foundations from across the country gave essential support to Canada’s National Arts Centre, raising more than $8.6 million to support performance, creation and learning across Canada. As we look back over the past year, the months are filled with performances that you brought to life on the stage, music education that you made possible in Canadian classrooms, and priceless experiences for artists, audiences and students that you made happen. Here are some of the highlights from the 2012–2013 season:

SEPTEMBER – The NAC Gala, presented by CIBC, raised over $800,000 (net) for the National Youth and Education Trust. During the Gala, we were thrilled to announce that Sara Vered and her family made a leadership gift to the Summer Music Institute.

OCTOBER – NAC Presents, in partnership with BMO Financial Group, began its second season. The Slaight Family Fund for Emerging Artists, supported by The Slaight Family Foundation, helped bring up-and-coming Canadian artists to the national stage. Ushering in the Year of the North at the National Arts Centre, the Orchestra embarked on its Northern Canada Tour. Presented by GE Canada, and with a theme of Transforming Lives Through Music, the Tour deepened a wide array of community and educational partnerships originally developed through the NAC’s year-round Music Alive Program: Nunavut.

NOVEMBER – Sun Life Financial became Presenting Sponsor of Share the Spirit, an initiative aimed at families who, for economic or health reasons, may not have the opportunity to enjoy live performances at the National Arts Centre.

DECEMBER – The NAC Foundation and the NAC Box Office celebrated the success of their first micro-donation campaign in support of Share the Spirit. From the beginning of November to December 24, over 730 individual donors rounded up their box office purchases, raising more than $5,000.

JANUARY – We celebrated the life of the late Louis Slavko Mrak, founder of Mark Motors of Ottawa and dedicated supporter of the NAC Orchestra. For 15 seasons, Mark Motors of Ottawa has been the proud title sponsor of the Mark Motors Audi Signature Series.

FEBRUARY – NAC English Theatre’s production of Metamorphosis (Based on the Myths of Ovid) was dedicated to the memory of Barbara Poole, former member of the NAC Foundation Board and generous donor to the NAC Foundation.

MARCH – We bid a fond farewell to our NAC Foundation Chair Gail O’Brien after 10 years of outstanding service to the NAC Foundation, seven as Chair. We were delighted to announce that prominent philanthropist and community leader Gail Asper was appointed as our new Chair.

APRIL – The Year of the North continued with Northern Scene, presented by TransCanada Corporation. The Scene welcomed more than 350 artists to the National Capital Region for an unforgettable celebration of Northern culture.

MAY – My First NAC, presented by Astral Radio, featured some of the best and brightest young musicians who have taken part in the NAC’s training and development programs.

JUNE – We celebrated and honoured Canadian luminaries at the Governor General’s Performing Arts Awards Gala, presented by Enbridge.

JULY – On Canada Day the National Arts Centre unveiled a bronze bust of the late Mario Bernardi, Founding Conductor of the NAC Orchestra. Many donors contributed to the creation of the bust made by Canadian artist Ruth Abernethy.

AUGUST – The final month of another season, and theusp of a new one. In 2012–2013, more than 7,000 individual donors helped contribute more than $8.6 million to the NAC Foundation. We look forward to facing the exciting year ahead, filled with performance, creation and learning that would not be possible without your support.

Thanks to outgoing board members Duncan Dee and Jim Kinnear for your years of service, and special thanks to outgoing Chair Gail O’Brien. A very warm welcome to Mark Motors of Ottawa and dedicated supporter of the NAC Orchestra. For 15 seasons, Mark Motors of Ottawa has been the proud title sponsor of the Mark Motors Audi Signature Series.

Finally, on behalf of the entire Foundation team and NAC family, thanks to our many loyal supporters. Your continuous support brings music, theatre and dance to our stages and to classrooms and communities across Canada. We couldn’t do it without you.

Sincerely,

Jaye Watson
Chief Executive Officer
NAC Foundation
